Industrial sources estimated the [illegible] stoppage to date has caused [illegible] to $15,000,000 loss in war materials.

Baltimore transit workers affiliated with an American Federation of Labor union voted to strike at 4 a. m., but at 8 a. m., company spokesmen estimated service was only about 15 per cent below normal.

The strike vote, protesting expulsion of an independent union and discharge of an emloye, followed a work interruption yesterday which union spokesmen ascribed to workers attending a union meeting.

The union said today's strike would tie up four fifths of the city's transportation system, but this morning the company said "the situation is just about the same as yesterday."

In a similar situation at Utica, N. Y. striking bus drivers voted to return to work pending mediation of a dispute about discharge of workers.

The soft coal wage dispute seemed headed for settlement. The WLB's decision, granting concessions to the miners that would amount to pay increases more than $1 a day, prompted the United Mine Workers and operators to arrange for reopening of bargaining sessions.

In Mobile, Ala., 7,000 Negro workers were called from their shipyard jobs by union leaders after disorders followed assignment of Negro welders to work with whites.

8-Cent an Hour Pay Raise Recommended for Rail Men

Emergency Board Proposes Settlemnt of 20 Cent Increase Asked by Employes.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—The emergency board of the national railway labor panel recommended today a general increase of 8 cents an hour for more than a million of the nation's railroad employes.

The 15 so-called non-operating unions involved had asked an increase of 20 cents an hour with a minimum wage of 70 cents an hour, and the union shop. The board declined to recommend these proposals.

The recommendations are not based on the little steel formula of the war labor board, but the emergency board said "we certify" that the increases are within the national stabilization program.

The increases, said the report, are "the minimum, non-inflationary adjustments necessary to correct gross inequities and to aid in the effective prosecution of the war."

The WLB, in addition to its little steel formula, may justify further increases under the same language.

The emergency board's report is not subject to action by the war labor board. Only Stabiliaztion Director James F. Byrnes, acting for the President, may modify it.

An executive order provides that unless the stablization director otherwise directs, the recommendations shall become effective 30 days after they are filed with the President.

The report estimated the increases would add about $204,000,000 to the carriers' annual payrolls and added:

"It is the considered judgment of the board that the recommended wage increases do not, under prevailing circumstances, provide a basis for increases in railroad rates or for resistance to justificable reductions in such rates."

The increases would be retroactive to Feb. 1. All retroactive payments would be made in war bonds.

The recommendations affect 73 classes of employes, such as the shop crafts, clerks, and maintenance workers. Their average earnings as of last October were 73.8 cents an hour, the board said. About half of them received less than 70 cents an hour.

Not affected are the switchmen and the four other brotherhoods who actually operate the trains. They have filed an independent demand for a 30 per cent increase. Hearings in that dispute will begin before another emergency board in New York on June 7.

The national railroad labor panel occupies about the same relationship to railway labor disputes as the war labor board does to all other labor disputes.

RACE TO PASS INCOME LEVY

Quick Adoption of Compromise Measure Expected as Conferees Agree.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—House and senate conferees who finally struggled to a compromise on pay-as-you-go income tax collection raced against the legislative clock today to put it into effect by July 1, only five weeks away.

Prospects look good for speedy senate and house approval, leaders among the conference group declared.

Designed to put the nation's 44,000,000 taxpayers on a current basis without the compulsion of paying two years' taxes in one, here is what the bill would do:

Cancel a whole year's income tax liability for persons owing the government $50 tax or less.

Cancel 75 per cent of a year's liability for all others, with the remainder to be paid half in 1944 and half in 1945.

20 Per Cent Withheld

Impose a 20 per cent withholding levy against the taxable portion of wages and salaries, to be applied against income and victory tax liabilities.

Require quarterly payments of the current year's tax by persons with income from sources other than wages or salaries, and from persons in upper salary brackets.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee, who headed the house conference delegation, said he hoped the bill would be accepted by both houses this week and approved by the President.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), ranking Republican member of the finance committee, told a reporter he did not think there would be an serious controversy about the measure now that the conferees have ended a five day deadlock.

Called Best Compromise

"It is perfectly obvious that it is the best compromise available," he said, "and it is equally obvious that there must be a bill passed."

Whether the legislation would eliminate any necessity for higher income tax rates this year remained to be determined. President Roosevelt has asked for an additional $16,000,000,000 in taxes and savings.

Congressional ratification of the conference committee's work would end four months of bitter legislative wrangling in which the Ruml skip-a-full-year-for-everybody plan was indorsed formally by the senate and rejected three times in the house, once by only four votes.

Doughton estimated the compromise plan would wipe out some $6,000,000,000 of obligations to the treasury—an estimated 64 or 65 per cent of the tax due on 1942 income.

Only the lesser of the 1942 or 1943 income tax obligations would be subject to full or partial abatement. That is to say, if a man's taxable income for 1942 were larger than his income this year, the abatement provisions would apply to 1943. In addition, a special provision was inserted to apply to "windfall" cases where income increased abnormally.

Special Adjustment

To avoid inequities at levels just above the $50 tax, a special "notch" feature was being worked out today by tax experts. The idea is to keep the man who owed somewhat more than $50 from paying a sizeable tax while the obligation of a man just under that figure would be cancelled.

For military and naval personnel, the bill would exclude $1,500 basic pay over and above the exemptions for other citizens. Ac-

BOND RALLY AT LA RUE TONIGHT

One of Final Major Activities in "Buy a Bomber" Campaign.

One of the last major activities in the Marion county "buy a bomber" campaign will be held tonight at LaRue in the form of a parade and bond rally.

Final arrangements for the demonstration were being completed today. Weather permitting, the LaRue school band, the Harding High school a cappella choir and others will stage a parade from the Legion hall in LaRue to the school, starting at 8:15. The rally will be held in the school auditorium and will climax an intensive bond selling campaign conducted by a group of women throughout the LaRue area.

Meanwhile, the bomber fund, which went over the top when Monday's sales had been counted, continued to soar yesterday. Tuesday sales totaling $19,875 brought the total to $359,479.75, or $34,479.75 above the $325,000 goal. This is nearly enough to buy 40 "block buster" bombs to send along with Marion county's bomber.

The Rotary club yesterday pushed its total sales up to the $18,550 mark, far beyond its quota of $10,000.

A group of young men holding weekly dinner meetings at the Y.M.C.A., formerly known as the Y's Men's Service club, has turned in sales totaling $6,275 in a partial report.

Agosta school, one of the first of the rural schools to report its sales to drive officials, listed sales amounting to $487.50. Claridon school today reported $3,775 in bonds sold by students.

U. S. Treasury Citation Given Harding Choir

The Harding High school a cappella choir, which has made participation in war bond selling events one of its major activities, today received official recognition of the U. S. Treasury department.

A citation "for distinguished services rendered in behalf of the war savings program" was presented to the choir this morning by Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the Marion county war savings committee. The presentation was made at assembly rooms in Harding High school with L. G. Jones, director of the choir, receiving the framed citation in behalf of the singing group.

The citation carries the signature of Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, and the official seal of the treasury department.

Council Plans Conference on Juvenile Gambling

Indications that city council will take action to eliminate gambling among Marion boys and girls in response to a plea voiced by C. W. Luse, of 855 Congress street at Monday night's council session were foreseen in a statement made to The Star this afternoon.

W. G. Slack, councilman-at-large and only member of city council to state at Monday night's meeting that the body would take steps to relieve the serious situation which Mr. Luse reported exists among Marion youth, said today that council members probably would get together next week to discuss the situation.

AID FOR MOTHERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 26—A federal program to provide medical and hospital care for service men's wives who become mothers will be administered in Ohio through local health districts, State Health Director R. H. Markwith said today. The state's plans for administering the program are awaiting final approval and funds have yet to be allocated for Ohio, Markwith asserted.

LET TENTATIVE CONTRACTS FOR HOSPITAL WORK

Columbus Concern Low Bidder for General Contract: Other Awards Listed.

Tentative contracts for the remodeling of the Marion City hospital and the construction of a temporary addition to the present building were awarded at a meeting of the City hospital board in Mayor Russell C. Snare's office late yesterday afternoon.

On a low bid of $87,863 the Kent Brothers Co. of Columbus tentatively was awarded the general contract. A low bid of $11,399 resulted in the awarding of the plumbing contract to the File Plumbing & Heating Co. of Lima. Wuellner & Theado of Columbus received the heating contract on a low bid of $7,737 and J. Dossen Kissel of Geneva was tentatively awarded the electrical contract on a low bid of $7,900.

Before the board may take formal action to award the contracts, two copies of the board's resolution of award and two copies of the tabulation of bids must be sent to the Public Works Agency in Chicago. The federal agency will then review these forms and other hospital data already on file there before approving or disapproving of the contracts. City and federal officials and members of the hospital board anticipate approval of the tentative contracts since all low bids were within the original estimated costs.

Contractor Ready to Start

After being informed that his company was the successful general contract bidder, E. R. Evans, superintendent of the Kent Brothers Co., assurred members of the board that his firm would be in a position to start work immediately after the formal letting of the contract. "Last week we completed a job in southeastern Ohio and now we have a yard full of equipment," Mr. Evans said in a conference with the board.

Kent Brothers workers only recently completed a large mess hall at the Lockbourne Army air base and at present are building a post exchange and a stockade at the Erie Proving Grounds, LaCarne, O. The firm's only job in the immediate Marion area was the construction of a bridge on Route 4, about six miles north of Marion, two years ago in a state highway department project eliminating a dangerous s-curve formed partly by the old bridge.

While conferring with the board Mr. Evans said his firm would purchase all possible supplies from local dealers.

The firm, formerly known as the Ohio State Construction Co., was highly recommended by Thomas D. McLaughlin of the architectural firm of Thomas D. McLaughlin & Associates. "With good plans, specifications and supervision, Kent Brothers will make a good general contractor," Mr. McLaughlin told the board.

Remodeling Contemplated

Bulk of the funds for the hospital improvement program is being provided by the federal government. The city's share in the project is $30,000. If funds will permit completion of the entire hospital project as now planned

Cong. Smith Describes Unsuccessful Efforts To Attend Food Conference

Declares Hot Springs "Welcome" Extended to Congressmen Applied Only to Two General Meetings.

Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion, representing the Eighth Ohio district, is at Hot Springs, Va., where the United Nations food conference is now in session, and has announced he will remain there until the close of the conference to observe the proceedings as best he can, although barred from attending executive sessions. Congressman Smith has informed The Star that he will mail reports of his observations for publication. The first of these communications appears below.

• • • •

By CONGRESSMAN F. C. SMITH

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 25—For some time since the announcement of the coming of the "United Nations' Conference on Food and Agriculture" here in this delightful and exclusive retreat there has been much public discussion of the stated objectives and real meaning of this meeting.

Naturally, along with many other congressmen, I was interested in this conference because of the important and far reaching economic and political implications involved in it.

Because it had been publicly announced that both congressmen and the press would be excluded from the deliberations of the meeting there was, of course, little interest among those members of congress who were concerned about its outcome in coming here as they felt this would be of no avail.

However, after Congressman Fred Bradley (R-Mich), who had been to Hot Springs, stated in a speech in the house May 20 that the information given out that congressmen could not attend these meetings was erroneous, he was told by Judge Marvin Jones, chairman of the conference, that congressmen were welcome to attend any and all sessions, I immediately, in company with Cong. Bradley, proceeded to Hot Springs with the idea of attending the conference sessions.

We arrived here early on the morning of May 21, met Judge Jones, the chairman of the conference, and were invited to take breakfast with him. At the breakfast table Judge Jones reassured both Congressman Bradley and me that congressmen were welcome to attend any session they cared to, but wound up by saying, "You can attend any of the sessions except executive sessions." This, we felt, was an unnecessary and unwarranted restriction, as it would preclude

Edsel Ford, Only Son of Auto Firm Founder, Dies in Detroit

Had Been Head of Vast Automobile Enterprise for 24 Years; Death Strikes at 49.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 26—Edsel Bryant Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., died at 1:30 a. m. today.

Death came to the 49-year-old president of the world's greatest family-owned manufacturing enterprise at his home in suburban Grosse Pointe Shores, after an illness of many months' standing that became critical 10 days ago. With him at his bedside were his wife, the former Eleanor Lowthian Clay, and three of their four children.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford, were not present, but hurried to the home immediately upon being advised of their son's death, according to a member of the household.

A statement issued by a member of the Henry Ford hospital staff said "death was due to a condition which developed from a former stomach malady for which an operation was performed 16 months ago. Undulant fever was also present."

Edsel Ford, only son of the founder of the Ford company that grew from an initial paid-in investment of $28,000 to a world-wide organization for which Henry Ford once was reported to have refused $2,000,000,000 had been ill for a long time, but insisted upon "carrying on."

"I can't spare the time," he observed frequently when asked why eh did not submit to medical treatment and surgery, if necessary.

Edsel, at the time of his death, was in the midst of one of his company's greatest efforts, an all-out production of war materials to help this country and its allies in the war.

Followed Father's Footsteps

His father, now 79, had done that before him, when he was head of the Ford company during World war 1.

It was under Edsel's guidance, however, that Ford performed its tremendous conversion to war production, and from its plants flow 4-engined bombing planes, tanks, jeeps, amphibious jeeps, anti-tank units and much other war equipment.

Edsel was regarded as one of the leading executives among the world's industrial leaders, although his father's fame overshadowed him.

Edsel was born in Detroit Nov. 6, 1893, at the time his father was completing his first automobile in a brick barn in Detroit's Bagley avenue.

Educated in the public schools and Detroit University school, Edsel Ford began work in the plant of the Ford company in 1912. After five years of factory work he was elected vice president and in 1919 after the Ford family had bought out all minority stockholders he was made president.

He was married in 1916 to Eleanor Lawthian Clay, daughter of a Detroit merchant.

Sometimes They Differed

Edsel Ford did not always see eye to eye with his father on matters of business policy, but there was a deep-rooted bond of affection between them:

Henry Ford once observed:

"Edsel has his own mind and his own ideas. He knows some things better than I do, and I know some things better than he does."

It was Edsel who persuaded his father to abandon the old model T car for one with a conventional gear shift; during the first World war he had charge of the construction of Eagle boats, the submarine chasers the company undertook to build on a volume basis; he was responsible also for the company's initial venture into aviation in the late twenties, and also developed the Ford company's Mercury model.

Edsel Ford was a devotee of motorboating, automobile racing, golf and photography and an ardent baseball fan."

Sole heir of one of the greatest and most rapidly accumulated fortunes ever amassed and one of the most talked-of but least-known figures in an industry in which his name was a by-word, was Edsel Bryant Ford.

Appearing in public even less frequently than did his father who was noted for shunning the spot-light, Edsel Ford was always reserved, taciturn and aloof, so much so in fact that for years one of the common questions concerning him was whether he was a real or an adopted son of Henry Ford.

Little Known To Public

"What kind of a man is Edsel Ford," was a question heard frequently both in and out of automotive circles. Few could answer it. Reared by his father with a great objective of fitting him to manage the huge Ford industries when the elder Ford might have to shed these responsibilities, Edsel Ford grew up apart from the ordinary walks and activities of life.

At 25 he was made vice president of the Ford Motor company.

RESUME MINE WAGE PARLEY

Operators and Union Leaders Resume Talks After WLB Gives Ruling.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—Soft coal operators and the United Mine Workers face each other across the bargaining table again today in a tacit, if tentative, acceptance of a war labor board decision which virtually stripped their dispute down to one substantial issue — portal-to-portal pay.

The way thus was opened to further extension of the truce under which the industry has been operating, with prospects for a full settlement apparently the brightest since negotiations began two and a half months ago. UMW President John L. Lewis was silent, however.

WLB Ruling Given

In a ruling late yesterday, little more than a month after the dispute was certified to it, the WLB rejected the miners' demand for a $2 a day increase in basic wages, but:

1. Recommended methods of plugging gaps in the six-day week and otherwise improving working and living conditions "to assure the mine workers a greater benefit than they now enjoy."

2. Agreed to approve any ne-

AID SERVICE MEN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—To save time for servicemen home on brief furlough, the office of price administration announced today that it had cut "red tape" for their food ration certificates, as well as shortening to three days the minimum food-allowance period. After June 2, all U. S. servicemen, as well as allied soldiers and sailors, on leave for 72 hours or longer may apply for ration certificates before leaving camp.

TARGET OF 4TH "CITY BUSTING" BLOW IN MAY

U. S. Bombers Continue To Blast Italian Ports from Bases in Africa.

By The Associated Press

The fourth great "city busting" raid of the month was made by perhaps 500 of the RAF's giant fleet of bombers against Germany last night, with Duesseldorf, 380 of its acres already laid waste by previous assaults, feeling the brunt of the attack.

On the axis' southern front, two waves of U. S. heavy bombers smashed at Messina in Sicily and other armadas hammered at Sardinia and Pantelleria in the fierce effort to break down further the outer ramparts of Italy, invited by Prime Minister Churchill yesterday to get out of the war while there is time.

Other war headlines today:

Italy — Washington diplomatic sources predict quick collapse of resistance of Italy if allies invade and Germans desert her.

Germany — Purge of Nazi party hinted.

Finland — Finnish radio says allied invasion of continent certain, and Russian front will become secondary.

Far Pacific — Adverse weather limits operations in southwest Pacific; no change in situation reported in North Pacific, with sleet, snow hampering U. S. attack on Attu; Japanese admit damage to 19 of their ships since April, claim without confirmation sinking of 13 allied ships, 17 submarines.

Russia — Tense calm prevailed on the long front as a whole, but the Russians shifted the center of their "feeler" attacks from the south to the sector northwest of Moscow where they announced capture of four settlements.

Balkans — The greatest German pressure was reported being exerted on Rumania, dispatches from Turkey said, to send another large army for a summer campaign in Russia.

Twenty-seven planes on the RAF's raiding force were lost in the Duesseldorf attack, which the British air ministry said was in "very great strength"—the same language it used to describe the record 2,000-ton bomb load that was dumped on the flood-ravaged Ruhr and Dortmund Sunday night.

Big Bombers Used

At least three-fourths of the 500 bombers were the four-engined block-buster carriers, observers said.

An informed source added "it would not be surprising to hear that the weight of bombs" dropped on Duesseldorf approached or equaled the tonnage left at Dortmund.

Duesseldorf, a city of 420,000, is 50 miles southwest of Dortmund and the third largest island port in Germany. It is a tank, gun and armament center on the Rhine where 190,000 persons were reported homeless last Decembr as a result of the RAF's offensive.

The mounting assault on Italy, already reported attempting to deal with swarms of refugees trying to escape from the threatened Italian "toe" and imperiled island outposts, was paced by joint attacks on Messina by Flying Fortresses from the northwest African air force and heavy U. S. bombers from the desert air force.

The Rome communique said "Messina was repeatedly attacked and important damage was caused mainly in the center of town."

The Italians claimed 44 of the

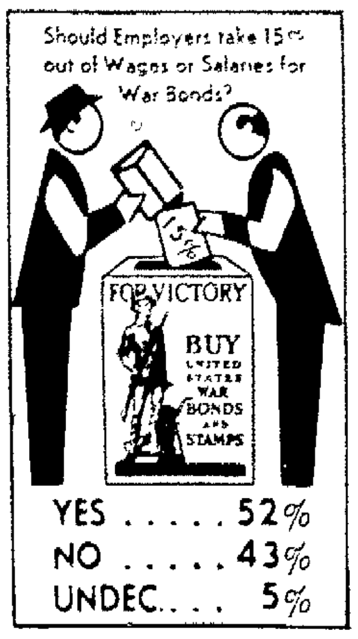
Poll Shows Majority for 15% War Bond Deduction

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion



PRINCETON, N. J., May 26—Considerably more cash can be extracted from the American people, to pay for the war and to head off inflation, if a policy which has already gained fairly wide public acceptance is pushed by the government.

From coast to coast a majority of employed persons interviewed in an Institute survey are willing to have their employers deduct 15 per cent from their wages or salaries for the purchase of war bonds.

Systematic deductions for bond buying are already in effect in many companies, but the amount usually averages only 10 per cent of each man's wage.

While a substantial number of workers feel they cannot afford to go higher than that in their bond buying, nevertheless a sizable sum of money could be raised by the government from those who do indicate a willingness to go up to 15 per cent.

The reactions of employed persons were sounded on the following issue.

"Would you be willing to have your employer take 15 cents out of every dollar of your wages or salary each pay day to buy defense bonds for you?"

The vote is:

Would be willing	52%
Would not be willing . . .	43
Undecided	5

The Treasury is reported to have given serious consideration to plans for 15 per cent or even 20 per cent deductions for war bonds. Many experts argue that while attempts to curb inflation through price-wage control present many administrative difficulties, taking cash away from people as it is earned can be done with comparative ease when they are willing to put more money into bonds.

Treasury officials will be interested in the fact that even in the low income groups there are a substantial number of workers willing to contribute 15 per cent for bonds, as the following table shows:

	Willing	Unwilling	Undec.
Upper & Middle Income Groups .	54%	41%	5%
Lower Income Group . . .	49	45	6

The survey also reveals that if a worker has already become accustomed to having part of his wage deducted for bonds, he tends to accept the idea of larger deductions.

For example, among those who already have less than 15 per cent deducted from their wages, a substantial number (55 per cent) say they are willing to contribute 15 per cent.

To them, apparently, the extra amount would not seem an undue burden.

On the other hand, only 47 per cent of those not now having any part of their wages deducted are in favor of going as high as 15 per cent.

President's Report on War Aid Covers Shipments Worth 11 Billions.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26 — President Roosevelt, accounting for $[illegible],472,000 in lend-lease [illegible] little more than two [illegible] disclosed yesterday that [illegible] actual fighting equipment [illegible] sent to Russia than any [illegible] country.

[illegible] March 31, the Soviet Union received $1,041,000,000 in planes, tanks, motor vehicles, ammunition, ordnance and water craft to help check the Nazi hordes, Mr. Roosevelt said in a letter to congress.

Outbuilding Axis

"Today, we are out-building the aggressors in every category of modern arms," he asserted, "and we are delivering them in the amounts necessary to build up the striking power for offensives that will end only in Berlin and Tokio."

Some of the lend-lease assistance has been in the form of goods and services made available in this country, such as training planes, and the repair of ships. So the export total from the time lend-lease operations began on March 11, 1941, through last March 31 is only $7,105,000,000. That is exclusive of $700,000,000 in planes and ships delivered by air or sea.

The United Kingdom got $3,116,000,000 worth of the exports and Russia $1,822,000,000. But in actual fighting gear, Russia's $1,041,000,000 overshadowed Britain's $881,000,000.

New Routes Planned

"New land routes are being developed to increase lend-lease shipments into China," the report to congress asserted, "and the reopening of the Burma road is among the strategic objectives of our forces."

The Chief Executive's letter stressed the victory in North Africa and said lend-lease operations there had demonstrated how a freed people can aid in the defeat of the axis. Their support, it said, "will reflect itself in active cooperation at the proper time by millions still to be liberated."

AIR FORCE SHARES SECRET WITH SHARP-EYED BOYS

Get Peek at New Planes at Wright Field.

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., May 26 — The Army air force shared one of its man-size secrets with two Dayton youths, giving them a close-up look at a new U. S. combat plane undergoing experimental tests at Wright Field.

The boys, 12-year-old Joe Kaiser and 13-year-old Harry Wombold, are members of a plane identification class at Whittier school, where Joe is in the seventh grade and Harry in the sixth.

Sunday afternoon they saw a strange plane over Dayton, and immediately called Patterson Field.

"There's a Nazi plane up there," they told the field operator.

Patterson field had no planes aloft, and immediately checked with Wright Field, only to learn the experimental plane was up for a test.

Wright Field officials said the new plane "resembles a German type," but refused to elaborate.

Today, in recognition of their alertness and their knowledge of And on top of that, the boys were escorted to Wright Field and taken on a tour of the flying line—a courtesy few civilians receive. An don top of that, the boys were allowed to inspect the new experimental plane, although field officials said it was still very much in the "hush-hush" stage.

Gaston and five others survived the forced landing of their Liberator heavy bomber in the northern part of the commonwealth after returning from a raid on a Japanese base in December.

Two of the survivors, Capt. Norman Crosson, Cincinnati, and Sergeant Loy Wilson were found by searchers 13 days after the forced landing.

Ohio Marine Wins Citation for Bravery

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—Corp. Peter Horshok, 24, (USMC) of Germano (Harrison county) O., has received a commendation for risking his life to help repair broken communication lines during the fighting on the Solomon islands last October, marine headquarters announced today.

Corporal Horshok's citation said he, with six volunteers, "left his shelter and without regard for personal safety repaired the broken lines under heavy enemy (surface craft) shell fire, working under extreme hazards of the jungle and in the face of enemy attacks."

The repaired lines enabled the Marines to "greatly increase" the effectiveness of their own artillery fire, the announcement said.

Fashions Are Frozen by New WPB Order

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—Now, the war production board has decided, is the time to freeze fashion.

A new decree limiting the amount of fabric in women's clothing was issued by the WPS with the expanation it would keep existing wardrobes in style and thus discourage non-essential purchases.

Production was banned entirely on double breasted suits and jackets, culottes, skating skirts, reversible lined or quilted skirts, dresses with vent or Norfolk backs and epaulets.

The order divides the use of fabrics into two categories.

"The body basic" category restricts measurements of the basic silhouette of the untrimmed dress according to size, with a size 16 allowed a maximum of 56 inches at the hips and 72 inches skirt sweep.

The "trimming allowance" restricts the size and design of fabric trimmings for a dress on a square-inch basis with the maximum approximate half a yard of 39-inch wide material.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

CHANGING THE SUBJECT

Editor of The Star: I have been reading the numerous, yes and I might say "humerous" letters from readers pertaining to dogs and Victory Gardens and I would like to make my contribution. Now who who wants dogs running over any garden, "Victory" or otherwise; and its only common sense to try our best to keep our dogs in the house, or on a leash during the hot weather or what is commonly known as "dog days."

Yes, we have a dog and we try our best to keep him under control, but once in a while he manages to get loose and goes calling, which we don't approve of, and while we feel almost positive that he never would bite, I can see the other person's point of view also when they come in contact with a strange dog. So rather than demand of our good editor to spend so much time and space on dog stories, let's become the intelligent adults most of us are and spend our time acquainting ourselves with "Reasons for Victory Gardens," Causes of Wars and how to win a permanent peace so that we can still retain a Free America in which we have the privilege of keeping or doing without pets, just as we like; a privilege which Germany and Russia do not today enjoy.

MRS. J. E. LEWIS.

FINDS IT TIRESOME

Editor of The Star: It seems The Marion Star is devoting a lot of valuable space to about as silly an argument as was ever heard from children, much less grown-ups. I refer to the one about cats and dogs.

I am sure when a law is passed we must be ruled by it. I do not believe council will rule against dogs unless they do become vicious, and I thought all the time that was the start of this argument. Now the poor dog is blamed for ruination of Victory Gardens. Let's not foget those poor fellows are doing their bit for Uncle Sam and that among them are some that not long ago were on our streets.

I don't have a dog but I have all the feeling in the world for them. It seems to me most of these arguments come from people who want us to know they have a Victory Garden. Well, all I can say, the whole argument has become tiresome. What other animal can we pick on for a change?

If the dogs are biting children a big per cent of that can be blamed on the child. I have seen dogs misused many times by children and one could not blame the dog if he did bite them. Let's not see the one-way slant at the dog's side. He is not so much to blame. He don't know a garden from a weed patch. We ought to have brains enough to know that.

TIME BATTLE BOBS UP AGAIN

New Fight Looms Over Bill To Advance Ohio Clocks in Summer Months.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 26—The "fast" time versus "slow" time question threatened today to precipitate another controversy in the Ohio legislature as its leaders strove to complete their business this week.

Rural members of the house of representatives, informed a bill had been introduced in the senate to place Ohio on the hour-faster eastern war time during the summer, announced they would fight it bitterly.

The "fast" time bill was rushed to the senate rules committee under a suspension of the rules and leaders expressed belief it would pass quickly.

In the house, which must pass on the bill, Rep. Willis I. Cory (R-Seneca) said he had polled rural members and found 60 of 65 opposed to "fast" time.

Led First Campaign

Cory, chairman of the house agriculture committee, was a leader of the movement which led to adoption of central war time last Feb. 21. Despite the "slow" time law, most of the state is operating on the "fast" eastern war time.

Cory told newspaper men that "city people" insisting on fast time, despite its inconveniences to the farmers, were "selfish." He said he thought urban residents preferred fast time so they could obtain more recreation.

The house leaders asked for an opinion from the Ohio State Grange and the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, which originally supported the change to central war time.

Senator Stanley Mechem (R-Athens), who introduced the bill to put Ohio on eastern war time between the first Sunday in April and the first Sunday in October, said he still believed central war time was best for Ohio.

But, he added, the present conflict in times "is irritating, to say the least," and should be eliminated to avoid confusion.

Meanwhile, two important pieces of legislation were scheduled for a vote in the legislature.

Appropriation Bill

The senate took up the $368,706,120 biennial appropriation bill, which has been passed by the house and must return there for concurrence in amendments.

Before the house was the senate-approved bill imposing an unemployment insurance surtax up to one per cent on the payrolls of manufacturers mushroomed by war production.

The senate also was to consider the house bill providing prison sentences for agents and operators of the "numbers" or "policy" gambling racket.

The house yesterday passed the senate bill empowering the state defense council to direct and supervise local civilian defense activities. It made numerous amendments which must be returned to the senate for concurrence.

The house disapproved of two other proposals.

One was the bill of Senator P. H. Rogers (R-Lorain), under which the state pardon and parole commission could initiate investigations of prisoners serving life sentences for first degree murder and recommend a pardon or commutation to the governor.

The bill, defeated 63 to 45 (69 votes were needed for passage), originally provided that first degree lifers should become eligible for a parole hearing after serving 15 years in prison. It was modified by a house committee.

Bid Secrecy Rejected

Also rejected was a house-senate conference committee's recommendation on legislation allowing the state highway director to keep secret his engineer's estimates of project costs. The senate had adopted the committee's recommendation, and proponents indicated they would ask the house to reconsider its position.

The senate added its approval to a house bill permitting counties to consolidate welfare activities. Because of amendments the bill must return to the house for further action.

Other actions:

The house completed enactment of legislation allowing banks to remain open on legal holidays;

The senate passed and sent to the house a bill authorizing establishment of conservancy districts for control of erosion on the shores and islands of Lake Erie.

SCHOOL GROUP ON ROTARY PROGRAM

History Reviewed; Club Bond Purchases $18,550.

A program developing the history of the country from its discovery to the present day was presented by students of Vernon High school yesterday before the Rotary club when the weekly meeting was held at the Harding.

The program consisted of numbers from an exchange program with other schools, entitled, "This Land of Ours." The script was written by Mrs. Ferne West, teacher, who also directed it.

For the colonial period Birch Willey presented the "Mayflower Compact" and Beverly Dusseau gave "The Landing of the Pilgrims." Representing the Revolutionary period was Lillis Flatman, who gave "Independence Bell." Harry Wilhelm gave a part of Daniel Webster's "Plea for the Union," from his debate with Haynes, to portray the pre-Civil war era. The Civil war years were symbolized by Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" recited by Ed Richmond and "Captain, My Captain" by Bernice Cosey. The period from the Spanish-American war to World War I was illustrated with an accordion solo, "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Angie Millison, and "You're a Grand Old Flag" sung by Bobby Wingett dressed as Uncle Sam.

The talk which was to have been given by F. E. Holt concerning the Rotary International convention which he attended last week in St. Louis, Mo., will be given at a later date.

Bonds purchased by Rotary members for the Marion county "Buy a Bomber" campaign totaled $18,550. The club's quota was set at $10,000.

Guests were E. L. Herbolsheimer of Defiance, formerly of Marion and a former member of the Marion Rotary club, Gene Willey of the Marion county health office and a former Rotarian, and Cecil Gabler, principal of Vernon Junior High school.

DORTMUND, key industrial city of Germany, target of the heaviest RAF raid, is indicated above. About 1000 planes dropped more than 2000 tons of bombs on the city. The British Air Ministry said this was the greatest tonnage ever dropped in a single raid.

NEED LATE FALL TO SAVE OHIO CORN

Planting Now Month to Six Weeks Late.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 26—Much of Ohio's corn acreage still is unplanted and only favorable weather and a late fall can assure farmers of a normal harvest, H. C. Ramsower of Ohio State university said today.

Rains have put farmers a month to six weeks behind on planting, the university's agriculture extension chief said. He estimated that not more than 10 per cent of the corn had been planted in central Ohio and at least 25 per cent of the plowing was yet to be done in northwestern Ohio.

Ramsower declared the possible crop loss could not be estimated because favorable conditions during the summer could offset much the effect of late planting.

"The situation is serious, but not critical," he asserted. The deadline for planting corn usually is about June 1 in central Ohio and 10 days later in the northern section of the state, Ramsower asserted.

MURDER AND SUICIDE DELAWARE VERDICT

Coroner's Investigation Closes Allen Hotel Case.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., May 26 — A verdict of murder and suicide has been returned in the death of an Ohio State university engineering student and a 43-year-old man who were found shot to death in the Allen hotel here yesterday.

Police Chief Leonard Hoffman identified them as Gaylen L. Burke, 18, of Wheelersburg, O., and W. G. Troeger. Both had been living at a rooming house in the university district at Columbus.

Hoffman said Burke, an honor student in high school, was shot through the left eye apparently while sleeping. Troeger, shot in the temple was on the floor, a gun by his side, the police chief said.

They registered Sunday and police were called today when efforts to arouse them failed.

At Columbus, officials of draft board No. 19 said a man who gave his name as Troeger appealed Friday for deferment for Burke, but it was refused and the youth was to have been inducted yesterday.

Dr. Wray Davies, Delaware county coroner who issued the verdict, said a day-long investigation showed Burke was shot while asleep by his companion, who then turned the death weapon, a 32-caliber revolver, on himself.

As to the motive for the crime, Coroner Davies only said,

"I am satisfied in my own mind as to the underlying cause but I don't choose to make any announcement for publication."

He said the case is "closed."

2,000 Tons on Dortmund

DORTMUND, the German coal town, railway junction and manufacturing center that felt the 2,000-ton fury of British air power Sunday night, has a population of approximately 550,000.

Its inhabitants know far better than the British how heavy the raid on their city was—and the British call it the heaviest of the war. Obviously, when 2,000 tons of anything drop in a defined area the results are going to be terrific, and the same weight of explosives means at least a thousand times as much damage as, say, coal.

But just to get an idea, suppose Dortmund had been bombed with coal. (In the siege of Sevastopol, the Germans dropped scrap iron, incidentally.) A ton of run-of-mine coal dumped out of an airplane at 10,000 feet would be a formidable shower of death and destruction, but there would be none of the lateral force developed by a bomb at the instant of explosion, nor would there be any particular danger from fire. Nevertheless, it probably would be enough to put an ordinary house out of commission, to say nothing of inhabitants who hadn't taken to shelter. Certainly the record raid the other night must have affected 100,000 persons in a most intimate manner, even if most of the bombs hit schools and hospitals, as the Germans sometimes claim. It is easy to imagine, moreover, that as many as 50,000 buildings were destroyed by impact, explosions and fire. The Chicago fire, one of the history's best known disasters, made 100,000 persons homeless and destroyed fewer than 18,000 buildings.

Blow on the Weak Flank

THE habit of taking China's endurance in the war for granted is about to be given another trial by fire. Reports of Japanese preparations for a major offensive finally have matured in Chungking dispatches telling of substantial gains westward along the Yangtze river in the capital's direction.

In the strategy of global war, nothing could be more nicely calculated to complicate United Nations planning than new pressure brought to bear on the Chinese flank at a time when preparation for a climactic blow in Europe are absorbing the bulk of shipping and war material. There always has been the possibility that China might be knocked out of the war, pending arrival of sufficient supplies by reopening the Burma road to keep it going. It is that possibility which Japan now seems determined to exploit with a new drive.

Except for the long record of Japanese failure to bring anything to a conclusion in China, the prospect would be one of unrelieved darkness. The habit of taking China's endurance for granted is based not on wishful thinking but on Chinese performance. Granted that China is weaker now than ever before, it continues to be true that Japan, unable to win the Chinese war when it had no other enemies, is starting its new campaign under an unprecedented handicap.

One Thing Leads to Another

ALREADY the phrase "fourth term" has become as familiar to the argumentative tongue as "third term" was beginning to be a year before the party convention in 1940. If anything, it is easier to grow accustomed to the sound of "fourth term" than "third term." To Democrats, at least, it is easier to grow accustomed to the idea, too.

There is no precedent about a fourth term; the presidential term precedent was broken when Mr. Roosevelt was nominated and elected the third time. The way was opened, as was apparent even then, for any number of terms. Certainly there is now this difference, that whereas the third term was an issue inside the Democratic party in 1939, the fourth term seems already to have been accepted four years later by party members, who this time must have decided to leave the issue to the opposition.

It is a perfect example of the way one thing leads to another. Any day now, as far as Democrats are concerned, will not be too soon to start mentioning the fifth term.

Strategic Bombing

AERIAL bombing, which began in World war 1 with Germans potting explosives blindly out of airships over England, sometimes blocked from the sight of their targets by clouds, and reached its climax in this war with Germany's attempt to destroy whole areas of London with mass flights of bombing planes, is still developing as a military art.

Selection of dams as critical targets and the reports of successful operations against dams in Germany and more recently in Sardinia suggests that the precision school of bombing may be gaining the ascendancy. One breach in a spillway, caused perhaps by one large bomb or mine, is a heavier blow than was struck by the tons of bombs dropped, for instance, on the "old city" during the London raids. While power stations, railroad junction and telephone exchanges always have been desirable targets, the recent attacks on dams is an indication that tactics may be in process of development which would make aerial bombing so highly selective that 500 well placed missiles could cripple a whole nation's war effort.

News Behind the News

Pro-Willkie Group May Cause G. O. P. Split
That Will Help Roosevelt in '44.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 26—The [illegible] of a [illegible] for- [illegible] on [illegible] Mr. Wendell Willkie present most [illegible] with [illegible] to the [illegible] to my critical column concerning his "One World" idea.

It seems particularly strong in New England and the east. A [illegible] "young Republicans," [illegible] and [illegible].

The [illegible] is [illegible] ant of [illegible] [illegible] It is Republican, but it denounces practically all the other leaders of the Republican party with an enthusiasm matched only by New Dealers in denouncing their adversaries.

It is anti-Roosevelt, but apparently [illegible] the Roosevelt [illegible] in general on the primary international issues of the day, the [illegible] likely to continue to be foremost on the next election day.

From the standpoint of [illegible], it is evident that it is a purely personal movement. Mr. Willkie is a somewhat dramatic figure who gets more attention in the press and elsewhere than any other political figure except Mr. Roosevelt.

The idea behind it is that Mr. Willkie be pro-Roosevelt internationally and anti-Roosevelt domestically and thus set out to beat Roosevelt for the fourth term.

Can Willkie Be Nominated?

But the [illegible] of other Republicans whom they denounce cast serious practical doubts upon their ability to nominate Mr. Willkie in any truly Republican gathering. They are against everyone else except possibly Governor Stassen of Minnesota, and they are not so sure of Stassen since his critical review of "One World" in the New York Times.

They are against most all the Republican senators and representatives and governors elected in the Republican victory last November because they are against Willkie.

This has caused a split in the party which no longer can be hidden, but the split can hardly be said to be in Willkie's favor. The other leaders frankly suggest Willkie is not a Republican, and should run on the Democratic ticket. One even has said he is "Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt put together."

Obviously therefore, the split is not working in favor of the Republican cause—or indeed, the anti-Roosevelt cause in general.

The obvious gainer is Mr. Roosevelt, whom the Willkie followers most desire. The President is thus able to cut into the Republican party on the leading issue of the day (domestic issues are hardly being mentioned by anyone.)

Although Mr. Willkie's nomination as a Republican candidate thus seems impossible in view of his opposition within, the situation seems to present possibilities of a third party—A Willkie party which would split the anti-Roosevelt vote. Some Republican leaders already profess to expect it.

Willkie Position

They are pointing to an answer he made in a Look magazine questionnaire recently in which he seemed to place men and ideas above party. But his friends have passed the word around in the middle west — unofficially of course—that he will support whomever is nominated at the next Republican convention.

This, then, is the practical political basis of a peculiar situation, which already has begun to surge upon 1944 prospects. It is much too early to go into the idealogical angles, because neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Willkie has taken a positive stand about post-war, but both have merely been playing around with hinted suggestions or generalities for public debate.

Neither has proposed a plan. When they do, the policy lines may be more clearly drawn.

But the sum total of the situation to date suggests Mr. Willkie's exceptionally earnest followers stand very little chance even to nominate, much less to elect him, but that they might aid materially in re-electing Mr. Roosevelt for a fourth terms.

Author of the Week

By John Selby
Associated Press Book Reviewer.

HENRY C. CASSIDY is The Associated Press chief of bureau in Moscow who one day dropped a line to Stalin and got back a reply—just as casually as if the note had been one of those postals from a resort hotel on which a circle indicates the room of the sender. In fact, Mr. Cassidy's direct correspondence with Stalin totalled two letters sent and two returned, both exchanges made big news.

Now Mr. Cassidy has written a book called "Moscow Dateline." It contains the things he has learned about Russia in two active years there, and I never have read a fairer statement of the Russian position. This would have been enough to make the book useful, but there is more. The writing is first rate and the content goes beyond the bare bones of history into a considered and expert picture of Russian life and the Russian character. "Moscow Dateline" is one of the few books which avoids the impression that Russia is a vast enigma presided over by an enigmatic man called Stalin likely at any time to produce horrid consequences. Mr. Cassidy found Russians very human, very loveable, highly intelligent, and oddly tolerant.

He was in the Caucasus when the blow fell. It looked like bad luck, but it was the opposite. He wrote a story about the calm and purposeful way the people took the German invasion which was good enough to make a hit the world over—even with Stalin Perhaps this made things easier for him later.

HENRY C. CASSIDY

His book describes Russia at war, but as people, not machines alone. The men of the embassies are in it, but so also the kids, their parents, the human problems of existence. For every "secret weapon" or inscrutable Stalin glance there is a cockle-warming story about Ivan Ivanovich or Ivanova. In the prolonged German bombardment of Moscow, the bombs fall on Cassidy and neighbors, not on a "people."

I like all this enormously, but would not want to leave the impression that the historical framework is not also in the book. It is, and so is an important conclusion—cooperation after the war is definitely possible as well as desirable, in the author's opinion.

Snake Yarn

By The Associated Press

CAMP TYSON, Tenn.—This is the story of how a bull snake "saved" thirteen men and a barrage balloon during intra-camp maneuvers at the Army's only barrage balloon training center.

Maj. Harold O. Green, lanky Texan, saw a big five-foot bull snake which, to the inexperienced eye, looks like a rattlesnake.

Most of Major Green's battalion members stationed on maneuver site 108 were inexperienced. So the Major picked up the harmless snake and took it from one to the other of the thirteen man guarding and manning a giant low altitude balloon. Then he tossed it in a brushpile.

Out from the depths of the dead branches rose an "enemy saboteur," flour-bomb in his hand. He had spent four hours inching his way to that position on his stomach and was ready to "wipe out" the whole crew and the balloon, and thus bring glory to his own outfit. But the bull snake landing on his neck changed his plans. He was promptly "shot."

Moral: Don't let a snake in the grass make you lose your head, soldier.

Errors of the OWI

Agency Getting Tired of Being "Whipping Boy" for Others.

By JOHN GROVER
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 26—The Office of War Information has several times got its official tail caught in the Congressional wringer, and has been forced publicly to admit error and bias.

How an agency largely staffed by competent newspapermen can commit a series of glaring boners that would shame the average journalism student has puzzled observers in Washington. It's a long story.

Efforts have been made to put all the blame on New Deal idealists in OWI. Such an assumption is unfair. Dat ol' debbil "system" that works so ponderously in the government is the villain.

Patterned After Newspapers

The OWI news bureau is roughly patterned after a newspaper editorial office. However, it is so hedged about with red tape that no editorial staff, however brilliant, could operate efficiently.

For instance, OWI has a copy desk like any newspaper. On a newspaper, a copy desk is charged with catching and killing bad grammar, errors of act and personal opinions written into the story by the reporter.

The copy desk has complete authority. A reporter can cry his eyes out over the way the desk butchers his story, but unless he can prove the desk editor is cold turkey wrong, the revisions stick. In short, no copy is sacred and no writer is a sacred cow who can write no wrong.

It's different for the copy desk men at OWI. They're vulnerable little fat boys in a pasture full of touchy sacred cows, which are the other federal bureaus.

OWI is a clearing house for federal information from other bureaus, save only the armed forces. The other agencies are the "reporters" in this information set-up. They write the stuff, and forward it to OWI for final clearance. But the OWI can't even correct mistakes in grammar or obvious factual errors without permission of the originating agency.

They tell us of a girl scribe for one bureau who squawked murder about the "violation" of her copy when an OWI blue pencil jockey suggested it was wrong to use a plural subject with a singular verb.

The stories submitted to OWI are prepared by paid press agents. They don't give the agency that pays their salaries any the worst of it. Some of them follow the prudent rule of buttering the boss with fulsome flattery. In normal newspaper practice, the copy desk would butcher out this personal goosegrease. Not so at OWI, where the hogtied copy desk can't change a letter without anguished moos from the sacred cows.

Under the OWI clearance system, it usually takes eight hours for a story to win approval from every agency even remotely affected. This is supposed to prevent conflict and ill-feeling between agencies. In one utterly trivial recent release, it was mentioned that the tennis racquet supply was adequate. Some mental giant along the clearance line wrote in "except strings." His correction necessitated a long check with a WLB materials branch, half a dozen other clearances, and the story was found originally correct.

One-Sided Stories

It's a basic rule in normal newspapering that both sides of a story must be given in controversial issues. However, when Agency A is involed in a dispute, seldom does its press agent include pertinent data unless it reflects glory on his bureau.

The desk men at OWI can't reject his copy, and insist it tell both sides. (That's how the "Battle Stations for All" pamphlet emerged as a fine kettle of propaganda for tax policies favored by the Treasury.)

For the blurb geniuses giving their all for their bureau bosses, this set-up is like living on Paradise Avenue in Press Agent's wonderland. Nothing could be sweeter from a press agent's standpoint than a copy desk that's handcuffed and can't hack his copy without his permission.

There are indications that OWI is more than a little tired of being the whipping boy for other agencies' daydreams. There's word out that OWI chiefs are demanding—and soon will get—ample authority to do a job.

The population of Hunan and Hupeh, two provinces in China, exceeds one-third that of the United States.

A Strong Dissent

We Have Heard Once Too Often the Absurd Claim That Sports Keep All of Us Physically Fit.

By DAMON RUNYON

I MUST challenge part of a statement by Lavern Dilweg, member of congress from Wisconsin, who declared on the house floor the other day that competitive games are so much a part of American life they should be encouraged during wartime, instead of being curtailed.

It is the first part I challenge. I approve the second part. I love sports promoters and like to see them do well. There is practically no sport that remains a going concern at this time that is not highly beneficial to the promoters. I would hate to see them cut off at the pockets.

But Lavern Dilweg's implication is that Americans are strongly addicted to engaging in competitive games. He later stated that our participation in sports constituted a secret weapon available to no enemy. This is an ancient fallacy. I mean the participation. The secret weapon crack was nice rhetoric. I think Lavern Dilweg has spectatorism confused with participation.

We are the most confirmed sports spectators on earth, yet I doubt that one in 50 Americans ever really participates in competitive games, barring shooting craps. The sports that draw the biggest crowds in this country are baseball, which is called our national pastime, football, horse racing and prize fighting, and these are essentially spectator sports.

Lavern Dilweg also said it is a patriotic duty for all Americans to seek total physical fitness through the playing fields, which leads me to suspect he wants us to wind up with tin ears, trick knees, and sore arms. Someone should tell Lavern Dilweg it was Waterloo that was said to have been won on playing fields, not Guadalcanal.

LET us say there are 8,000,000 men in our armed forces. I am willing to wager that 6,000,000 of them never participated in competitive games in the sense Lavern Dilweg meant. But probably less than a million have never been spectators. All of which proves nothing, except I have heard the statement about the influence of competitive games on American life so often it makes me tired. If we always had to raise our armies from participants in competitive games we would never get more than a few divisions.

Our army and navy take race track touts, newspapermen, stock brokers, cabinet makers, carpenters, clerks, electricians, mechanics, linemen, painters, plumbers, sheet metal workers, chauffeurs, and what-not, who never competed even in a game of beanbag, and make the greatest soldiers and sailors in the world. They take anaemic, hollow-chested guys who never lifted a baseball bat or saw a basketball and turn them into husky fighting men.

They do the same thing, of course, with the big shoulders from the gridiron and other sports and maybe the latter have some advantage in the beginning over the others in the matter of stamina, but they wind up even. I am not knocking physical fitness. I just say that competitive games have nothing to do with it as far as soldiering is concerned.

BY the way, President Roosevelt says he is thinking of naming a committee of three to consider problems of carrying on organized sport in wartime and make recommendations to him. It would be one of those committees characteristic of these times because he adds it would have no power except to make recommendations. We have a zillion committees of that kind right now and another can do no harm.

However, it is not altogether clear why a powerless sports committee is necessary, inasmuch as nearly all sports are flourishing about as usual. Horse racing continues to attract enormous crowds of the wartime idle, with almost as much money being gambled every day at one New York track as the entire racing industry contributed to the war effort in a year. Prize fights are getting more attention some places than South Pacific battles costing the lives of hundreds of our soldiers. Big league baseball is doing all right.

Football will probably be able to scrape together all the strapping young men necessary this fall, as fortunately few of the young fathers who will be drafted in August to fill the ranks of the army are football players. I see no drastic curtailment in sport, except on the Pacific coast where the possibility that troops might be inconvenienced by congested roads in case of air raids caused cancellation of horse racing.

Still, if President Roosevelt is serious he could save himself the bother of fresh appointments by just sending the sports matter to the WLB, which is the same as a committee and specializes in being powerless.

So They Say

Congress can't run this war, and it is fortunate that it knows it.—Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, house speaker.

In France it was nothing like this. Our men fought every yard of the way back and they had none of these things (guns) to fight with.—British major in Tunisia.

Out of all this (lend-lease) surely is emerging a basic principle of our grand alliance—that each of the United Nations should give according to its needs. No exact monetary reckoning can give expression to this principle.—British Ambassador Lord Halifax.

Unless the anti-inflation controls of the government succeed in holding the economic line the white-collar workers with fixed incomes are bound to suffer to a much greater degree than organized labor.—WLB member Wayne L. Morse.

I guess we've learned now that good will and signed papers are useless unless they have behind them brute force to prevent any chance to inaugurate another world-wide aggressor's war.—Navy Secretary Frank Knox.

All of us are doing things we do not like, but this is the time for sacrifice. I make $50 a month and I used to make that in a week. We in the service do not want to kill and we do not want to die. But we do want to win this war. Strikers should remember that.—Pvt. Charles O. Smith, in Hawaii.

Every report that resistance shall cease is false. We will fight for our country and all that is most valuable to us. Concerning this we are all united.—Premier Per Albin Hansson of Sweden.

The people of Argentina are very pro-Allied and in the near future there are prospects for a change (to pro-Ally government action). I am sure that it will be entirely different following the September elections.—Prof. Hugo F. [illegible] of the University of Montevideo.

We must prepare for the time which is approaching and will surely come when the bulk of these armies will have advanced across the seas into the deadly grapple on the continent.—Winston Churchill.

ITALY ADVISED TO QUIT WAR

[illegible] Tells Axis Partner To [illegible] Out While There Still Is Time.

Points To Red Burden

[illegible] to the manner in which Russia had been holding back the [illegible] of 218 enemy divisions, the [illegible] minister said he certainly [illegible] felt that he should re-[illegible] his government to ask more [illegible] Soviet Union. Then he [illegible]

[illegible] strength may grow as [illegible] on and they must know [illegible] Japan has watched them with [illegible] opportunist eye.

Britain's war leader was speaking in answer to a question whether he thought it would be to Russia's self-interest to fight Japan after the conflict in Europe is won.

The prime minister put in a guest appearance at President Roosevelt's regular Tuesday press conference, and the Chief Executive, interrupting briefly at only a couple of points, let his ruddy, cigar-smoking friend from overseas take over.

No Secrets Divulged

Churchill spoke optimistically of the conduct of the war since he last was in Washington a little less than a year ago. But he fell back on generalities in answering an inquiry about plans for the future, particularly in Europe. Those plans, he said, are to wage this war until unconditional surrender is secured from all those who have molested us, and that applies equally to Asia and Europe.

Declaring he was anxious to increase the intensity of the war efforts against Japan and that these must be prosecuted with the greatest vigor, the prime minister said it was with that in mind that he had brought the three top British commanders in India with him to Washington.

Emphasizing the importance of heavy bombing, the prime minister said it was poetic justice that the United Nations should be achieving superiority in airplanes—a weapon on which he said the Germans had counted to subjugate the world.

HOME FOOD TRAINING COURSE IS LAUNCHED

First Session Held at Pleasant Township School.

A rural war production training course in home food production and processing was opened Monday night in the Pleasant Township school under sponsorship of the federal government in cooperation with the board of education of the school. Instructors are Miss Gladys Uncapher, home economics instructor, and Milford Schmidt, vocational agricultural instructor in the school.

The course is designed on the same plan as the farm shop course conducted at the school this year, and is open to all school patrons and residents of the community. The course has as an objective, "Food for Freedom," and will be conducted as a small cannery. Miss Uncapher will be in charge of the processing of the foods and Mr. Schmidt will assist the patrons in the management of gardens through lectures at the meetings held at the school building and at the homes.

It is expected that several thousands of cans will be processed at the school during the season and any surplus of food will be canned for use in the school cafeteria. The large kitchen is fully equipped for mass canning and in addition to the processing equipment on hand there will be a dehydrator.

While no definite time has been scheduled the work will start as soon as the foods ripen and in peak seasons it is probable that the women will be working three or more nights a week.

At the meeting Monday night M. Schmidt talked on soil and fertilizer and how to produce better vegetables. At the next meeting, Monday night, he will talk on insects and pests. The school is the only one in operation in Marion or adjoining counties, the sponsors state.

Verdict of Accidental Death Given at Kenton

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., May 26—A verdict of accidental death was returned today by Coroner John A. Mooney in the drowning of John Joseph Cavin, 28, son of Mrs. Christina Cavin of Kenton who died when he fell into the rain-swollen Scioto river May 17 while walking along the bank.

The body was discovered Tuesday by T. W. Krimblebine, New York Central railroad clerk. He waded into four feet of water and held Cavin's clothing until police arrived to assist him in removing the body up a steep bank.

Police said Cavin had been missing from home since morning of May 17 and a description of the drowning victim by Leonard Cosgrove, New York Central trainman who saw the crippled youth fall into the stream, tallied with that of Cavin.

Surviving are his mother and a sister, Margaret of Cincinnati.

congressmen from learning about some of the most important deliberations and decisions, a full knowledge of which is indispensible for a full understanding of them. From this we thought, of course, that though we would be excluded from executive sessions, these would be relatively few, and that we would still be able to get much out of the open sessions.

Though we resented this restriction and protested against it, imagine our surprise and chagrin when we learned later that all the sessions of the foreign delegates participating in the conference were executive sessions, that we were limited to attend only open sessions, of which there would be only two in the whole conference, one of which had already been held at the opening and the other would be held at the conclusion of the conference.

After learning definitely that congressmen were completely barred from all meetings except the final general meeting, we made a formal demand upon Judge Jones to admit congressmen and the press to all the sessions, and that if this were not complied with we demanded to know in exact and unequivocal language just what sessions we could and could not attend. We asked him to give us his decision the next day.

His answer that next day was that congressmen would be completely barred from any and all sessions except the closing session heretofore referred to.

We were given to understand that congressmen could converse with any of the delegates outside of the committee rooms, or when they are not in session. This, of course, has some value to us but does not help us in obtaining first hand knowledge of the deliberations and decisions made by the several committees. So that congress is completely shut out from all the meetings of the "United Nations' Conference on Food and Agriculture," now being held here in Hot Springs, Virginia, though, believe it or not, the legislative bodies and so-called legislative bodies, of some of the foreign nations participating, notably Russia, have representatives attending here and who are permitted to attend any and all meetings.

Japs Admit Loss of 19 Ships in South Pacific

By The Associated Press

Japan today officially acknowledged damage to 19 vessels in the southwest Pacific since April.

An imperial headquarters announcement broadcast by Tokyo and recorded by The Associated Press said merely that "our damage since April comprises 19 vessels," but the communique gave a strong indication that some, and possibly all, were sunk.

At the same time, imperial headquarters claimed Japanese forces sank 13 allied vessels in the South Pacific between May 5 and May 24, five of them transports. The claim was unsubstantiated by allied reports on shipping losses.

The broadcast claimed further that Japanese naval units sank 17 enemy submarines in the period from April 1 to May 20.

Advantage Lies with Allies in War by Bombing

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

If Hitler couldn't knock England out by bombing, what chance have the allies of blasting Germany into submission now?

That very reasonable question has been put to me, and this looks like an appropriate time to answer it in view of the further devastating raids on German and Italian territory. Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini couldn't have slept well last night.

Actually, of course, nobody in authority has claimed that Hitler could be beaten by air alone, although British Premier Churchill says it's an "experiment well worth trying, so long as other measures aren't excluded"—with accent on that last clause. There has been no indication the allies intend to wait for air power to turn the trick.

On the contrary, it's reasonable to expect them to start invasions of the continent as soon as the raids have reduced axis strength so armies can be landed without being mowed down.

Circumstances Differ

But to return to the question. Hitler's bombing of England and the allied bombing of Germany involve different circumstances. Take, for example, the distribution of war industries.

Britain's plants were largely decentralized—scattered all over the country. This was by deliberate plan which was calculated to meet just such an emergency as arose. The Nazi bombers did terrific damage here and there, but knocking out one manufacturing city or half a dozen couldn't disrupt the country's production.

Many of Germany's essential industries, however, are centralized because of circumstances over which Hitler has had no control. His greatest armament works are concentrated in the Ruhr, because both iron and coal are there. He can't get away from that district, and the endless miles of factories there make a prime target for the Anglo-American bombers based in Britain. Closing down of the Ruhr manufacturing zone would be a major catastrophe which the all highest could scarcely survive.

Morale Didn't Break

Then, too, the fuehrer banked too much on breaking British morale. He had the idea that if he could lay London in ruins, the people would fold up automatically. So he kept on sending big fleets of bombers over the capital although he was doing very little industrial damage. London is a great rail center and port, but even if he had leveled it, that wouldn't in itself have beaten Britain.

One of the biggest elements in John Bull's favor was the fact he was able to depend on Uncle Sam for supplies. As fast as Hitler destroyed resources with bombs, convoys from America dumped fresh cargoes ashore in Britain.

That produced the German U-boat campaign which, like its predecessor in the World war, crowded the allies into a corner but didn't succeed in controlling the Atlantic. Despite bombs and U-boats, the allies have continued to pile up striking-power in the British isles until we are now able to unleash the hurricane of bombs which we hope will whittle the head gangster down to the size where we can handle him nicely.

There is still another vital difference between the job which we are doing over western Europe and the Nazi bombing of Britain. Far greater explosive power is being unleashed against Hitler, it's being done more systematically and the objectives selected are vital parts of his war machine. The Germans loosed some terribly destructive bombs over Britain but the latest allied bombs are both blockbusters and heart-busters. It is, as Mr. Churchill suggested, an interesting experiment.

Conservationist Uses Rainy Season as Argument for Drainage.

H. E. Hecker, acting district conservationist of the Soil Conservation service with headquarters in Mt. Gilead, believes he has a very timely topic to discuss with farmers in Marion and Morrow counties.

He wants to talk to them about farm drainage, and points to recent rains and soggy fields as evidence of the need for farmers to consider well-planned drainage systems. He can be contacted either at the courthouse in Mt. Gilead or through Arthur Smith, Marion county farm agent, in the basement of the Marion postoffice.

HOSPITAL

by the board, considerable improvement will be made in the present hospital building. Soundproofing of the corridors, widening of doors, insulating the roof and redecorating the hospital throughout are among improvements in mind.

All five members of the hospital board attended yesterday's meeting. Members of the board are Mayor Snare, chairman, Dr. E. L. Brady, C. O. Brown, Walter A. Dorsey and A. W. Kette. Others present for the reading of bids in addition to a large number of contractors, union officials and city officials were Mr. McLaughlin and F. E. Cupp of the architectural firm, Charles W. Oborn of Marion, working with architectural firm on this project, and Gary J. Kane, state engineer of the federal works agency, a division of the War Public Works Administration; and J. C. Goady, constructon engineer of the same federal agency.

The addition to the hospital is to be a one-story structure in the form of a T. The top of the T will extend along Superior street, connecting with the hospital on the west side of the south wing and extending approximately 232 feet west, almost to Cleveland avenue. The stem of the T will run north. The main entrance to the addition will be of colonial design and will be located in the center of the Superior street side.

Plans approved by the hospital board some time ago provide for two glass solariums, one to be located on the south side of the main section near the point where the addition will join the present building and the other near the west end.

Isolation Ward

In the west end of the building will be an isolation ward with a separate outside entrance, giving the hospital facilities to adequately handle contagious disease cases for the first time in its history.

In the section extending northward from the main section to form the stem of the T will be located three operating rooms, one at the northwest end for emergency cases, and two along the north side to handle other cases. Equipment in the present hospital operating room will be moved to the addition and the operating room in the old building will be remodeled into either patients' rooms or a ward.

A covered ambulance entrance will be in the north section and will give easy access to the emergency operating room.

The addition will be of wood, insulated and painted white.

Kent Brothers Co. was one of 10 construction companies to bid on the project. Unsuccessful general contract bidders and the amounts of their bids follow: Norton & Nadalin of Columbus, $105,900; Buesching Brothers Construction Co. of Ft. Wayne, Ind. $103,249; C. M. Everett Knowlton of Bellefontaine, $106,671; and Baldauf Construction Co., $111,800.

Edsel Ford Dies at Home Today

Three years later he became treasurer. This was in 1921, the year Wall Street unsuccessfully sought control of the Ford company. The elder Ford probably could not have selected a time of greater stress in which to test his son's ability.

Edsel was not quite 24 when the United States entered the World war. The Ford company was engaged in the production of steel helmets, airplane motors, artillery caissons, Red Cross and army medical ambulances and "eagle" boats—an effort to apply the principles of mass production of motor cars to the manufacture of naval craft.

When the general drafts of the nation's man-power were made, counsel for the Ford company appeared before the draft board and asked exemption for Edsel on the ground that his presence at home was essential to a war industry. Many men close to him pictured Edsel as wanting to go overseas with the A. E. F., but staying at home at the stern dictation of his father. After being made more or less of an issue in congress, the exemption was granted.

Born in Detroit

Edsel Ford was born on Nov. 6, 1893, in a two-story, red brick house in Bagley, now the heart of Detroit's downtown district. His father at the time was employed at $30 a week in the engine room of the Detroit Edison plant and had just completed in his off hours, his first gasoline-driven "horseless carriage."

When Edsel became old enough he was sent to the public schools. He finished the grade schools at 14, and was then sent to the Detroit University school. Graduated from the latter institution he took up his training in his father's plant instead of going to college.

Edsel Ford was married Nov. 1, 1916, to Miss Eleanor Clay, a niece of J. L. Hudson, one of Detroit's leading merchants and philanthropists. They had four children—Henry Ford II, born in 1918; Benson Ford, in 1920; Josephine Ford in 1922, and William Clay Ford in 1925.

Edsel was largely responsible for the interest taken by his father in aviation, and persuaded him to undertake the development of airplane manufacturing at Dearborn, site of the parent plant of the Ford company. He offered the Edsel B. Ford prize for the annual national air tour, and sponsored and contributed very largely to the expedition of Commander Richard E. Byrd to the South Pole in 1929-1930.

He was a member of Detroit's art commission, made a number of notable gifts to the Detroit Art Institute and was a member of numerous Detroit clubs and the New York Yacht Club.

Trained by Father

Edsel Ford's first official post with the Ford Motor company was that of secretary, an assignment his father made for him in 1915. Stories are told how, in the course of training he had mapped out for his son, Henry Ford frequently would go into the plant, create some situation that would be difficult to adjust or handle from an administrative viewpoint and then walk off and leave it for the son to discover and adjust.

Probably nothing that transpired in his career caused Edsel Ford as much unpleasantness—certainly nothing caused him as much publicity—as the movement to obtain his exemption from the world war draft. Those close to him pictured him as deeply hurt by a "general misunderstanding" of his position.

In congress Democrats and Republicans took opposing positions and shouted for and against his exemption. The elder Ford at the time was regarded as a Democrat and soon was to run for United States senator on the Democratic ticket. Republicans held Edsel's name up to ridicule while Democrats praised him and argued that he could serve his country best by staying at home and "turning out the guns."

Supporting the statement that Edsel personally wanted to go overseas, one man close to Henry Ford told of a suggestion that had been made that Edsel be taken into the draft, made an officer, and be sent back home to conduct the Ford war industries.

"There is one job in this war," he quoted Edsel as saying "that I do not want and will not take and that is the job of a rich man's son. I honestly believe I can render my greatest service here. But, if the men who have my case in charge think I am mistaken and can do greater service elsewhere, then I want to go to France. I'd rather be in the trenches than holding down a swivel chair."

Edsel Ford was interested in sports and drove occasionally in speedboat regattas. In 1932 he acted as pace-maker for the Indianapolis speedway races on Memorial day, setting a pace of close to 70 miles an hour.

With his family Edsel spent considerable time during the summer months at a home at Seal Harbor, Maine, a huge stone structure built at a cost of upwards of $3,000,000. There was also a country home near Milford, Mich., built on several thousand acres of land, where the family spent week-ends. The town house was on Gaukler's Point, St. Clair Shores, near Detroit. It required three years to build.

FLOODS THREATEN INDUSTRIAL PLANTS

Two Huge Illinois War Factories in Danger.

By The Associated Press

Two huge industrial plants in southern Illinois, as well as several small communities in that region and in eastern Missouri, remained imperiled today as the rampaging Mississippi river, choked with flood waters from scores of tributaries, showed no material drop in the lower reaches.

Although conditions upstream on the Mississippi and the Illinois rivers were reported improved with drops recorded, the two swollen streams continued relentlessly along their path of destruction over a wide section in the danger zones of the flooded area.

At Wolf Lake, 125 miles south of St. Louis, six inches of water covered the town and fear was expressed by officials that the Atlas powder plant, covering 2,000 acres of low land, was endangered by the spreading Mississippi waters.

About 25 miles north of Wolf Lake, at Grand Tower (Ill.) the Illinois Central Public Service generating plant a $9,000,000 project, was menaced by rising water and the situation was termed "critical" by coast guardsmen at the scene.

At Beardstown (Ill.) the Illinois river continued to rise and Army officials termed the situation "potentially serious." About 5,500 of the river town's 6,500 residents have been evacuated.

The flood crisis passed in Indiana yesterday, while no further serious conditions were reported in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Kansas.

Queen Mary Observes 76th Birthday Today

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 26—Queen Mary quietly observed her 76th birthday today at the 800-acre estate near a tiny west England village that has been her home since the war began.

The empire sent its congratulations but, save for family messages and presents and the presence of the Duchess of Gloucester and 17-months-old Prince William as guests, the queen mother was expected to spend the day amid the war-time simplicity she has personalized for all of Britain.

Today's Tip--Look Out for the Cards

Redbirds Already May Be Started on Drive To Overtake Dodgers.

Associated Press Sports Writer
By JUDSON BAILEY

Today's timely tip is watch out for the St. Louis Cardinals from here on.

The Redbirds have been fluttering along in second or third place in the National league standings most of the spring and they are 2½ games behind the Brooklyn Dodgers at the moment, but every sign indicates they are ready to soar now that they are back in Sportsman's park for a long stay.

They already may have taken off. They won two doubleheaders in two days from the New York Giants to close their eastern invasion and in these four games made 52 hits for 20 runs.

The Redbirds don't have to be rated on their series with the Giants alone, however, for they won nine out of 13 games on their eastern swing, split even with the Dodgers in four games, and previously had won eight of 14 against the other western clubs.

Starting with tonight's game with Boston they will be on their home grounds continuously until June 21 and in the interim will meet every other team in the league.

The Dodgers can be counted upon to put up a battle before yielding the lead. They, too, have won four straight and in the first round of intersection play also captured nine out of 13 games. They have been getting exceptional pitching and timely extra-base hitting.

The American league also is looking forward to fire works over first place.

It is beginning to be recognized that the New York Yankees no longer can dominate the junior circuit as they have in other years and rival clubs are ceasing to act shy and meek in the presence of the monarchs.

The Cleveland Indians took three games from the champions last week-end and moved into first place, but the Tribe may have difficulty holding this edge through a two-week eastern invasion while the Yankees are operating in their own stadium.

After playing at Boston for three days the Indians will tackle the Yankees in New York Saturday and Sunday and then move on to Washington, where the ambitious Senators are no easy touch.

The Yankees are dated with Detroit for the next three days.

SPORTS — THE MARION STAR

Latin Players Vindicate Clark Griffith

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Features Sports Editor

NEW YORK — Clark Griffith, the old grey fox with the panatella, is chuckling these days at his baseball rivals who snickered when he imported that batch of Cuban players.

Most of the quips making the rounds of the spring training belt in Florida, some years ago, centered around the Washington owner and the Cubans, Puerto Ricans and South Americans he had assembled at his Orlando camp. The idea that these neighbors from the south could play major league calibre ball was ridiculous, not to say ludicrous.

Other Clubs Follow Suit

Griff just holed in behind the smoke of his thin cigar and continued giving his Spanish speaking athletes the once over.

Some stuck and performed so well that other clubs began signing these foreigners from south of the border. Right now the A's, Cubs and Senators are cashing in on their imports, the other clubs are envious, the Giants are giving the experiment a try at first base and only Bucky Harris of the Phillies is undisturbed.

It was Harris, then manager of the Senators, who bore the brunt of the Cuban invasion. Griff had so many gentlemen from Havana and Almendares that they got into Bucky's hair. Everywhere he turned he bumped into one.

It got so that he practically had to carry an interpreter around with him. Whenever he walked out to the mound to correct a pitching motion fault he had to say his piece to the interpreter and then stand around impatiently, shifting from one foot to another, while his orders were translated. Harris no spika da Spanish and the chatter of these foreign recruits sounded like gee-chee to him.

NAPOLEON REYES
Giants Trying Him Out

Cambria Started It

The real pioneer in Cuban talent wasn't Griff. It was a stocky little chap called Joe Cambria, a laundryman, as I recall, who doubled as a scout for the Senators. Cambria apparently had the market cornered in the countries to the South and turned up every spring with a fresh crop. Cambria was a good salesman, he talked a great game for each of his prospects.

Four years ago he came up with a towering giant named Roberto Ortiz, who was tabbed as another Walter Johnson. The guy was awfully fast but he had only a shady notion as to the location of the plate.

The giant Cuban's first day warmup wounded two Washington catchers and Harris finally had to beg the services of Al Lopez, who was visiting the Senators' camp. Lopez, of Spanish descent, could speak the language. Harris finally gave up on Ortiz. And wiser heads than Cambria decided if Ortiz belonged anywhere in a ball park it was in the distant reaches of the outfield.

That was a good move. Last year outfielder Ortiz, playing with Chattanooga, led Southern association batters with .350. The Phillies grabbed him. But that was before Harris was named manager. One of his first acts was to let Ortiz go to the Dodgers, who shunted him to Montreal.

Giants Try Cuban

The Giants are the latest to try the Cuban way. Old Dolf Luque, perhaps the greatest of the major leaguers produced by the island republic, probably whispered into Mel Ott's ear of the exploits of his countrymen. Anyway, the Giants called up Napoleon Reyes, from their Jersey City farm, for a try at first base.

Sensation of this young season has been Jesse Flores, the flower of Guadalajara. The little Mexican has won five straight games for the A's. Connie Mack has another Cuban, Roberto Estalella, in the outfield. Washington brought Roberto up, too, some years ago.

And the Senators are very happy over the success of Alejandro (Alex) Carrasquel, a pitcher they've had for three years who is suspected of owning a few years more than the 30 he admits. Alex, from Caracas, Venezuela, has won four straight without a setback.

The Cubs have Hiram Bithorn, a Puerto Rican, who takes a regular pitching turn, and Salvador Hernandez, a catcher from Havana. Brooklyn had an outfielder from Puerto Rico, Luis Olmo, but he was shipped to Montreal.

Yep, the only time Griffith isn't chuckling over the fireworks of the chaps from down South is when Flores pitches against the Senators.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 26 — These spring days there's nothing quite like goin' fishin'—even if you can only sit and think about it ...the season is open, everywhere from possum kingdom in Texas to the Brule in Wisconsin and from the Silliguamish in Washington to the Miramichi in New Brunswick (not forgetting the big muddy out at the edge of town)...All you have to do is pack up your tackle, find room on a train and when you arrive the guide will tell you: "You shoulda been here last week. They were really bitin' then."...All of which leads up to a letter just received from Sports Editor Wendell Lalime of the Newport (Vt.) Daily Express...subject: Fishing.

Newport In a Storm — Newport, Vermont, is right up in the fishing country on Lake Memphremagog. That's the lake where they made a record catch last week, hauling in 18 landlocked salmon with a total weight of 100 pounds within 90 minutes..."To begin with," Lalime begins, "sportsmen fish for salmon right in the heart of the community from a railroad bridge adjacent to the local depot...They can arrive from Boston or New York on a morning train, catch their fish and take a noon train back to wherever they came from. If they wish to stay longer, the city's only hotel is only 100 yards away. No gasoline needed here."

A Tall One—"Fishermen here," adds Wendell, "like to tell the yarn about the time the Boston-Montreal train pulled into Newport and during the usual 15-minute stop a spectator in the observation car jumped to the bridge and hurried to the rail, where he managed to borrow someone's rod. Within five minutes he had hooked a salmon, hopped back on the train, had the chef cook it, and was sitting down to a delicious dinner as the train left Newport."...That's fast fishing, but from here it sounds like a lot faster cooking.

Wouldn't You Know It? "The annual run is dropping off now, and fishermen are leaving the bridge to try their luck in the Clyde river," Lalime concludes ...there it is again—we shoulda been there last week.

Congressmen Concerned Over Football Future

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 26—Three congressmen avowedly concerned with the "future of football and our American way of athletics," asked the Army today for a "more liberal attitude toward the game during war time."

Representatives Weiss (D-Pa), Dilweg (D-Wis) and Monroney (D-Okla) urged that soldiers receiving special training in the nation's colleges be permitted to participate in athletics.

"If the Navy can do it—and is —why can't the Army? That's all we want to know," said Weiss, a professional football referee.

Monroney emphasized the need of leadership after the war, and the increasing evidence from battle fronts that men who have had competitive athletic training are natural leaders.

LONG SEARCH FOR LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP SEEMS TO BE ENDED

Montgomery Looks Like Boy Who "Was It" All the Time.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 26—Among the more timely questions of the day is the one about what happened to the lightweight tournament. Well, folks, it's been found.

It seems that in the confusion, it was being held all the time, although not even the beak-busters realized it. And Bob Montgomery is the only one to come out of it in one piece.

A rundown of Rough Robert's more recent victims shows the brand new world champion of New York and New Jersey has knocked off, either directly or indirectly, ten of the dozen or so swatters first listed for the elimination.

The result is the Pennsylvania commission figures his record is close enough to par for the course, so the Keystone state swat solons probably also will put the title okay on Bob next Wednesday.

Three times in as many years Bob dropped a decision that had the boys writing his fistic obit. Last Friday night Bob carried the brass ring and took all the bounce out of bouncing Beau Jack.

This was the shindig that really proves there was a lightweight tournament all the time.

The original was thought up when Sammy Angott retired permanently for a couple of months last fall. Then, it "opened and closed in one," as the result of a series of off-again, on-again antics by the New York state athletic commission. After starting the tourney, the wise New York beak-busting bosses, who insist they never confuse either themselves or the general public, turned an about face and decided to hand the title to the Bouncing Beau.

VERNON SCHOOL PLAY DRAWS LARGE CROWD

700 See Freshmen in "Henpecked Husband."

Freshmen of Vernon Junior High school, directed by Miss Mary Gracely, yesterday presented a three-act play, "Henpecked Husband." An audience of about 700, including matinee and night, applauded this annual dramatic feature of the graduating class.

Harry Wilhem, the henpecked husband, had three great problems: his mother-in-law, Ruth Ellen Vail; her devilish son, Ray Ballinger; and a poetic Frenchman, Ed Preston. Don Sloan had his troubles keeping his fiancee, Betty Short. Helen Beal, as the wife, held poetry meetings at her house with Barbara Alspach and Janet Stein. Everything was all straightened out, however, with the help of Virginia Paymar, Lillie Flaiman, and John Boyd.

Three gardenias expressed the ninth graders' appreciation of Miss Gracely's excellent direction.

This was the first three-act play in several years to be presented by a freshman group.

The production staff was as follows: Makeup, Miss Helen May, Betty Freed, Josephine Fazio, Joie Ewers, Ann Probst, Simone Napoli, Laurie Feaver; properties, Miss Una Ackley, Dick Foster, Duane Eastman, Warren Wewhorter, Maxine Unland, Katie Baldauf, Bernice Cosey, Dorothy Brooks; stage, Dan Sailer, John Boyd, David Barringer, Charles Brown, Paul McAllister; publicity, Pat Smoot, Michael Phillips, Betty Hart. Ushers: Dorothy Adams, Joan Foos, Joan Huffman, Joyce White, Phyllis Horne, Anne Swink, Jane Anne Gabler, Helen Haines, Suzellen Roest; prompter, Marcia Rayburn.

Music was by the Vernon orchestra, directed by Homer Huffman.

Girl Killed in Ohio Raid Blackout Test

By The Associated Press

One person was killed and another injured seriously last night in a 35-minute test blackout that covered ten counties in industrial northern Ohio.

Dead was Esther Yochman, 15, of Diamond, O. Her 14-year-old companion, Pauline Peterchak, also of Diamond, O., was hurt critically when their bicycles collided with an air raid warden's automobile near Salem, state highway patrolmen reported.

The test darkened the glow of steel mills and the bright lights of numerous war plants and obscured streets and highways throughout the ten-county area.

STRIKES

ber workers rose to more than 50,000 as employes of the General Tire & Rubber Co. rejoined the stoppage. General's workers left their jobs Saturday but returned a day later. They have a separate case pending before the WLB.

Officials of Goodyear, Firestone and Goodrich reported the stoppage halted all production in their plants yesterday.

In asking the unionists to "honor their no strike pledge to the nation" and end the walkout, the WLB said it would not act on a petition for rehearing of the wage case until all production is resumed.

The board asserted employes' average hourly earnings at Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone ranged from $1.15 to $1.25 per hour and that an eight-cent boost would have "seriously unstabilized wage relationships in the industry."

A federal conciliator and union officials sought to end work stoppages with curtailed operations in three Toledo plants.

Conciliator John Conner scheduled a conference with union and company representatives at the Spicer Manufacturing Co., where approximately 5,000 employes are idle and union leaders at the Electric Auto-Lite Co. called a meeting to urge some 2,000 men to return to their jobs.

Lloyd J. Haney, Spicer industrial relations director, asserted the dispute which halted production of motor vehicle parts there involved the discharge of one transmission department worker and the reclassification of machine operators in the axle division.

Thomas Burke, secretary of the CIO United Auto Workers local, said employes were locked out but would return as soon as permitted.

Melvin Schultz, president of the UAW local at Auto-Lite, said workers there would be urged at an afternoon meeting to go back to their jobs. He said the men refused to work because of "delays" by the war labor board in acting on proposed wage increases and by the company to bargain "in good faith" on a portion of a pending contract.

C. W. Pound, Auto-Lite vice president, declared "the management inquired of shop committeemen and workers when they started leaving their jobs * * * what this meant and they replied they didn't understand it."

MODEL PLANES MADE BY PUPILS DISPLAYED

Replicas for Navy Shown To Boost Bomber Drive.

Fifty model airplanes representing the Allies and foreign countries' planes, which were made for the Navy by the vocational classes of the Marion junior high schools, went on display today in a Center street window of Uhler's Department store. Arrangements were made for the display by the Marion county "buy a bomber" committee.

At a distance of 40 feet, the model planes, have the same appearance as full size planes a mile away. They are all painted black and show all the important features. When they are taken out of the window next week they will be shipped to the Navy.

OAKLAND GRADE PUPILS GIVE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Program Presented At Meeting Of P.-T. A. Group.

Pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of Oakland school presented a music festival when the P.-T. A. held its last meeting of the year, Tuesday afternoon. The flowers used for the decorations were brought by the pupils and the stage decorations of flags and flowers were arranged by the teachers.

Pupils of the fourth grade under the direction of Miss Catherine Thew sang music of the allied nations which included two Chinese songs, one each from Poland and Australia and two English folk songs.

Songs of Latin America were presented by the fifth grade. A Central American song, one Creole folk song and a song from Mexico were given.

Miss Wanda McMahan, who directed the fifth grade, also directed the pupils of the sixth grade when they presented seven songs typifying the United States. Music was furnished by the school orchestra under the direction of Miss Jane Scott. Members of the orchestra are: Anna Mary Weaver, Joan Ault, Marilyn Rizor, Doris Ann Clapsaddle, Harold Morris, Ronald Cox, Floyd Tharp, Willis Parker, Raymond Hall and Roger Hart.

The following committees were appointed during the business session: Mrs. Clyde Kerran, social; Mrs. Esther Freeman, welfare; Mrs. Louis Meister, health; Mrs. Edwin Price, program; Mrs. Glen Kellogg, ways and means; Mrs. Wayne Frost, magazine; Mrs. Herbert Clapsaddle, publicity; Mrs. Irvin Myers, membership; Mrs. Howard Rizor, safety; Miss Wanda McMahan, music; Miss Estella Myers, council representative; Mrs. Howard Ziegler, study group; Mrs. Harry Speck, Mrs. F. E. Haas, radio; Miss Rhea King, Mrs. Glenn Kellogg and Mrs. John Ridel, budget and finance. An announcement was made that the association would purchase risers for the stage in memory of the sixth grade pupils who leave the school and their parents.

Party politics in Britain are out for the duration. Labor leaders sit in the cabinet and on all important government committees. In the factories, joint labor-management committees work out production problems.

PAL OF WOODALL DEMPSEY WITNESS

Declares He Saw Ex-Champ's Wife with Trainer.

By The Associated Press

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 26 —A former pal of Benny Woodall testified in state supreme court today that he saw Hannah Williams Dempsey and Woodall, named as a co-respondent by Lieut. Commander Jack Dempsey in his divorce suit, asleep in Mrs. Dempsey's Manhattan apartment bedroom.

Mrs. Dempsey, the former musical comedy star whom Dempsey has accused of intimacies with former lightweight boxing champion Lew Jenkins and Woodall, Jenkins' former trainer, was not in court today.

The witness, Harry Goldman of the Bronx, testified before official referee J. Addison Young that he fell asleep after attending a party at Mrs. Dempsey's apartment and woke up in the morning in the living room.

"I walked through the bedroom and saw Woodall asleep with his trousers on and shoes off," Goldman said.

Arthur F. Driscoll, attorney for Dempsey, asked, "what did you see about Mrs. Dempsey's dress?"

"She was covered up," Goldman replied. "She was in bed. She had blankets on."

He testified he attended many parties at Mrs. Dempsey's apartment and said he drank quite a bit and in many instances was unable to recall what had gone on.

Mrs. Dempsey has filed counter-suit for divorce against the former heavyweight champ, but her allegations have not been made public. Both seek custody of their two children, Joan, eight, and Barbara, six.

Driscoll asked how Mrs. Dempsey and Woodall behaved on occasions and Goldman replied:

"They were kissing one another in the car and in restaurants they'd be kissing each other."

"In public places, in the car and on the street?" asked Driscoll.

"Yes, sir," Goldman replied.

A witness testified at opening sessions yesterday that the two men named as correspondents were frequent visitors at the Dempsey apartment.

Mrs. Mary Coelho, a former domestic at the Dempsey home, told the court the men would leave by the apartment's back door as Dempsey entered by the front.

Mrs. Coelho testified that during the winter of 1940 she once had surprised Mrs. Dempsey who she said was embracing Woodall in the apartment. She said that Woodall wore street clothes but Mrs. Dempsey was clad in a negligee.

RYE CONTINUES TO PUSH PRICE HIGHER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 26—Although running into heavy profit-taking, rye continued its advance today and reached new highs since 1937 on gains extending to about a cent at times. Some of the upturn was lost after mid-day when realizing sales expanded, but the market remained above yesterday's close.

Some of the strength in rye was reflected in the oats pit, where buying was based upon expectations of heavier feed demand because of the delay in getting corn planted in some states. Wheat was neglected most of the day and showed little change from the preceding session's finish.

MARKET LOSES PART OF GAINS

Decline Comes After Prices Hit Highest Average Levels for Year.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 26 — Stocks advanced today to the highest average levels for more than three years but active profit selling whittled away part of the gains.

The trading pace slowed as prices backed away from peak levels. Near the fourth hour fractional advances were well distributed among key industrial groups and the carrier issues.

Bonds and commodities showed irregular trends.

Among stocks on the improved side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, Westinghouse, Oliver Farm, Douglas Aircraft, Eastman, U. S. Gypsum and Texas Co. New York Central changed hands in large blocks at the opening.

The early upswing in the stock exchange was accelerated by a new surge of inflationary ideas on the war labor board's recommendation in the soft coal mine dispute.

The New York Central statement showed net income of $3.29 a share for four months ended April compared with $1.14 a year ago.

BOMBING

raiders were shot down at Messina and elsewhere. The allied communiques said 11 planes were lost.

Large Blast Set Off

Communiques from Cairo and allied headquarters said a large explosion was set off in the naval base, and that the naval oil depot, railway sidings, the dock area and power station were covered with a blanket of bombs.

While Warhawks and Mitchells again scorched Pantelleria, the little fortified island off Tunisia, and paid devastating visits to Terranova, Olbia, Licata, Porto Empedocle, Portoscuso and Bobba Di Falco, in Sardinia and Sicily, diplomatic quarters in Washington speculated on the probable course of invasion of the Italian mainland.

Some believed the major allied drive of 1943 would be against the Germans and that the Italians would be allowed to stew all year under the mere threat of invasion, but others looked for these developments:

1. Only brief resistance by the Italian army.

2. Flight of Mussolini to Germany.

3. Abdication of King Vittorio Emanuele in favor of his 6-year-old grandson, Prince of Naples.

4. U. S. military administration of the country temporarily.

An informal invitation for the Italians to adopt some such course was given by Prime Minister Churchill at a White House press conference yesterday when he said the Italians would be well advised to get rid of their fascist leaders and throw themselves upon the mercy of the allies.

Other cracks on the moral armor of the Germans and Finns appeared.

The Berlin radio quoted Robert Wagner, German gauleiter for Alsace and Baden, as hinting at a purge of the Nazi party. He said party members were expected to set an example in times of the heaviest fighting, and weaklings "will have to leave our community."

A Finnish broadcast said an allied landing in Europe this summer was almost a certainty and as a result the German campaign on the Russian front might be of secondary importance with Germany forced to limit her objectives in Russia.

MINERS

gotiated sum "genuinely and reasonably" related to the portal-to-portal (underground travel) issue.

3. Raised the vacation payment $30—from $20 to $50.

4. Directed the operators to furnish, without charge to the miners, safety equipment, working tools, and blacksmithing, except personal wearing apparel such as hats, clothing, shoes and goggles. The limination of these charges is retroactive to April 1.

These concessions may add up to $1 a day, more or less, exclusive of increased earnings for the sixth day of work. However any such estimate depends largely on the outcome of negotiations on the portal-to-portal issue, to which the board gave its blessing. The parties were directed to report back within 15 days.

While the union still showed no indication of formally recognizing the authority of the war labor board, UMW headquarters in general reacted favorably. A spokesman, referring to the order to bargain, said "that is what the miners have been contending for all along." Arrangements for the negotiations were completed a few hours after the decision was handed down [illegible] district presidents already had been summoned to Washington for discussion of the decision.

Labor members of the board dissented [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the inflation and uncontrolled rise in the cost of living during the past two years. [illegible]

Seek Clue to Cause of Teacher's Death

By The Associated Press

WAUSEON, O., May 26—Authorities today sought to learn the cause of the death of Miss Bess Schmidt, a Los Angeles school teacher, whose modish-attired body was found along the New York Central tracks near here.

Coroner H. M. Warner said that although the body was mangled lack of blood at the scene indicated the 30-year-old woman was dead before she was struck by a train.

He said tests to determine the cause of death might take two weeks and asked railroad police to investigate the possibility the Californian had been dropped or had fallen from a train.

Sgt. Margaret Slater of the Toledo police department, who identified Miss Schmidt yesterday, said the teacher had left Detroit Sunday after visiting relatives there and was enroute west.

The policewoman said she quieted Miss Schmidt when the teacher "became highly nervous" in the Toledo bus terminal Sunday night.

Japan Not Neglected, Patterson Tells Ohioans

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 26—Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, declares Japan "will become increasingly aware of the attention we are going to pay her."

"We have sent substantial air reinforcements to General MacArthur in Australia. We know he will employ them to advantage. The President has announced that the bulk of our Army and Navy forces are now in the Pacific. No, Japan has not been neglected," he told the Ohio Manufacturers association and the Associated Industries of Ohio at a joint war-progress meeting last night.

"We will recapture Burma, we will reopen the Burma road, we will rescue and rearm China, we will liberate the Philippines. And, in the end, we will utterly destroy the ruling caste of Japan," he added.

TAX BILL

cordingly, a member of the armed forces would have a basic exemption of $2,000 if single, $2,700 if married. Also, tax obligations outstanding at the death of a soldier or sailor would be cancelled.

Since the 20 per cent withholding tax is designed to capture only a 3 per cent victory tax and 17 per cent for the income tax fund, it will not fully settle the obligations of salary and wage earners whose income mounts into the higher surtax brackets. Single persons paid more than $2,700 a year and married persons paid $3,500 or more would have to estimate their total tax and pay quarterly on the amount above withholdings.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

KATHARINE LIFTED her head with a proud, defiant gesture.

"She never could break me down," she said "no matter what she did."

Then a sudden flash of fear came into her eyes. "But, Jack!—would it be possible for her to get word to him by some devious means that she was holding me for a hostage? If Jack should learn that I was in danger…"

"Katharine! You don't know my father's resourcefulness, nor the construction and safeguards of his hideaway. No person outside can get to Jack without my father's permission.

A Knock at the Door

As if to emphasize the word, there came a knock upon the camouflaged door, and when I went to it, Adams came inside. Through the door I saw my father sitting before the telephone, and knew that he already was putting the machinery in motion for guarding Katharine when she should obey the order of Ruth Hayes to go to the Myers apartment.

"Your father said I was to go with you to Mrs. Noel Veritzen's apartment," Adams told me.

"Yes, thank you," I answered; "I am ready to go immediately."

He followed me to the living room, and I nodded to Katharine.

"I'll go directly over to Mary's," I said. "Father wishes you to stay here, you know, until Noel comes for you."

"Yes, I know," she said. "I'll be ready."

"Then let us go," I said to Adams, and we went out into the corridor, then rapidly along it to the elevator which took us to Mary's floor.

A Surprise for Steve

As we neared her door, I saw him looking around alertly, and then with a crisp command, "Stand still, Mrs. Graham!" he darted through the door to the stairway marked "Exit!" The next instant I heard his low exclamation: "Don't move, you! I thought I'd find you here!"

I knew, of course, that he was confronting Stephen Redfield.

I went to the "Exit" door and pushed it ajar. Stephen Redfield was pinioned neatly and effectively by Adams' powerful grip.

"Go directly into Mrs. Veritzen's apartment and let no one come out until I telephone you," Adams said. "As soon as you get in, telephone your father and ask him to have Meershum meet me on the eighteenth floor immediately. Say nothing more. He'll read between the lines and have Meershum come directly to Redfield's room. I'll telephone you as soon as I've thrown the fear of God into this bird."

Rings Mary's Bell

"I'll telephone my father immediately," I said, and going directly to Mary's door I rang the bell.

"We thought something had happened to you," Mary said gaily as she let me in. "Noel's been ready to go over since you telephoned."

"I'm sorry to be late," I said, "but something did happen. I'll tell you about it later, after I have used your telephone, if I may."

"Have you the service charge with you?" Mary asked with a perfectly straight face, and I wrinkled my nose at her, although I felt in anything but a mirthful mood as I went to the telephone.

But when I had put up the receiver again, I turned to find her staring at me with panic-stricken eyes while Noel, who evidently had been courteously waiting for me to finish before leaving, had an air of fierce belligerency about him.

"Eighteenth floor?" he repeated. "Isn't that where that cur, Redfield, is kenneled? What's he been doing now?"

Sulfa Drugs.

FOR ABOUT five years now the medical professional has been in a dither of excitement about the new sulfa drugs which act so remarkably in such infections as pneumonia, meningitis, urinary infections, etc. One of the most widely - experienced practicing physicians said to me the other day: "Nobody dies any more of pneumonia." And this is almost literally true.

The enthusiasm of the medical profession has communicated itself to the lay public and, as usual with such emotional epidemics, they have gone far beyond the limits that the medical profession prescribed for the use of these remedies and are using them for self-medication for nearly everything.

In some instances, as for ordinary colds and sore throats and running noses, they do more harm than good. In the first place, it is definitely established that although they kill a great many infections, the sulfa drugs do not kill off the virus of the common cold or influence its course.

People who take large doses of this for a cold not only do themselves no good, but they really prolong a period of discomfort because heavy doses of the drugs are likely to lead to skin rashes, mental and physical depression and other disagreeable symptoms.

A popular treatise on the subject is Behind the Sulfa Drugs: A Short History of Chemotherapy, by Iago Galdston, M.D., with a preface by Perrin H. Long, M.D., (D. Appleton-Century Company, New York, 1943.)

In 1908 a German scientist named P. Gelmo was working with a chemical dye, sulfanilamide. He found that it was extremely colorfast, resisted the bleaching effects of washing and sunlight. The color-fastness arose from the firm combination which the dyes containing the sulfonamide element formed with the proteins of wool and silk.

He was interested only on the chemical and industrial aspects of the subject, but some of his fellow workers suggested that it might be useful in the treatment of disease.

The new era in this development began in 1932 when Gerhard Domagk, Director of the Institute of Experimental Pathology in the I. G. Farbenindustrie at Eberfeld, Germany, using a dye similar to sulfanilamide, which was named prontosil, found that it would protect mice against otherwise fatal doses of pus germs (streptococci). He found also that prontosil was harmless to the mice.

French chemists took the dye, prontosil, which is a colloid (colloid is like the white of egg) and developed a crystalline substance from it, to which they gave the name sulfanilamide. About 1936 this drug was made available for use in clinics all over the world.

It was soon found that the most exaggerated statements of the discoverers were far short of the really powerful curative action of these substances in human beings in the presence of otherwise fatal infections.

Following is a list of diseases, not completely inclusive, in which the sulfonamides are proving invaluable and frequently life-saving: actinomycosis; blood infections with the hemolytic streptococci, staphylococci, pneumococci, meningococci and influenza bacillus; carbuncles; chancroid; childbed fever; erysipelas; furuncles; gonorrheal arthritis; gonorrheal infection of the male and of the female genital tract; infectious arthritis; infections of the urinary tract; mastoid infections; meningitis; middle-ear infections; osteomyelitis; peritonitis; pneumonia; scarlet fever; skin infections; streptococcic throat infections, and trachoma.

HEY MOM! LOOK!

The best "press agents" for the Waste Fat Salvage program are service men who write letters urging the folks back home to save every drop of waste fat to provide glycerine for the making of munitions. These service men have been impressed by the urgency of salvaging waste household fats because all Army and Navy bases save their waste fats, and the various canteens at which the boys are entertained also save waste fats. The Army salvages an average of 5,000,000 pounds a month; the Navy 950,000.
